Modern Greek Language Teaching Centre

An up to date space for the teaching of Greek as a second/foreign language

The Modern Greek Language Teaching Centre of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens was established in 1950 and today is the largest centre for teaching the Greek language as a second/foreign language in the world. The Modern Greek Language Teaching Centre functions under the scientific supervision of the Department of Linguistics of the School of Philosophy, thus ensuring that students are offered high quality studies using the most up to date teaching methods.

Modern Greek Language Teaching Centre

Why should you choose the Greek Language Teaching Centre of the University of Athens for Greek lessons?

-  To learn Greek from the best teachers of Greek as a second language, in the best educational environment, under the best conditions
 - All our teaching staff are specialized experts in the teaching of Greek as a second language, with rich teaching experience, great experience in designing original teaching material and the writing of textbooks
 - The Modern Greek Language Teaching Centre is situated in the University of Athens campus, a few kilometers from the centre of Athens, next to the forest of Kaisariani with a view to the sea, the Acropolis and Lycabettus Hill
 - The specially built building of the Modern Greek Language Teaching Centre is up to date, with technological equipment that ensures exceptional results in the teaching of the language.
